Illinois Aquatic Invasive Species

Atwood Environmental Center, Rockford

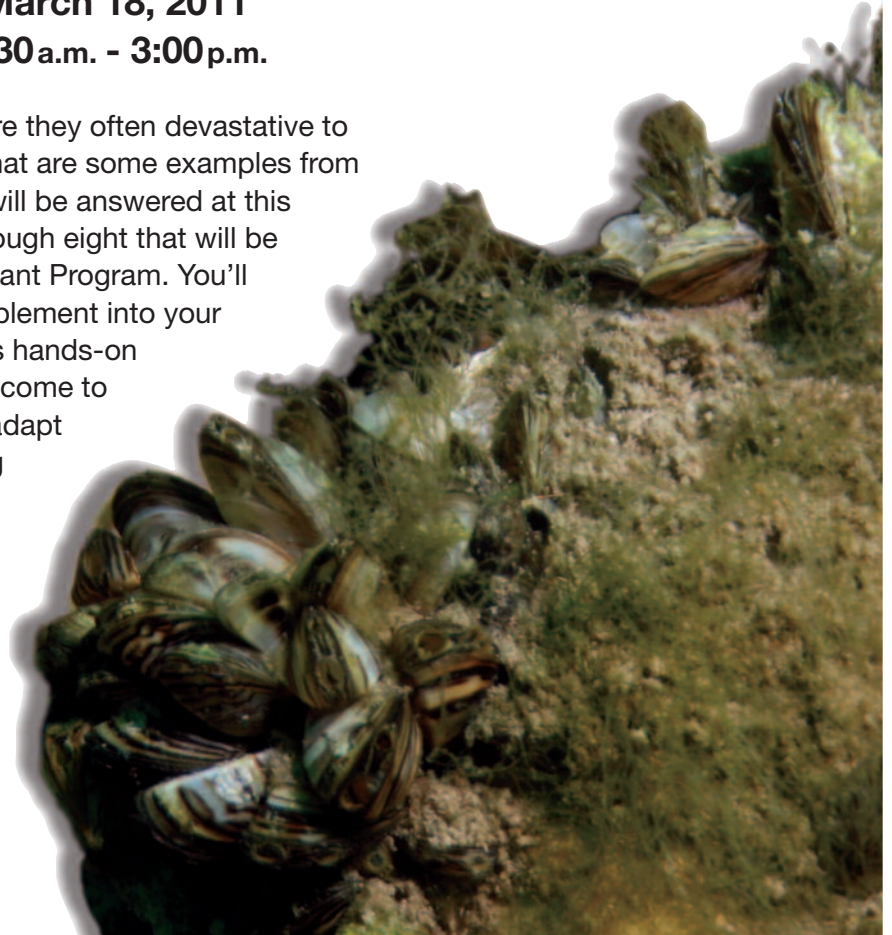

March 18, 2011

8:30 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.

What are aquatic invasive species? Why are they often devastating to native species? How do they get here? What are some examples from Illinois? These and many other questions will be answered at this workshop for educators of grades four through eight that will be led by staff from the Illinois-Indiana Sea Grant Program. You'll take home Illinois-specific resources to implement into your curriculum and will participate in numerous hands-on activities. Teachers of other grades are welcome to register for the workshop but will need to adapt the information, as appropriate. Continuing Professional Development Units are available.
